

Parent Educator Certification Program

The Center for Nonviolent Education and Parenting is excited to announce the 2009-2010 Parent Educator Certification Program. This program is designed for people who are interested in teaching CNVEP's published Nonviolent Parenting curriculum. Past participants have included teachers, therapists, and other professionals who are teaching parenting classes or integrating our philosophy into their work. This is a two part course.

Part One is the Nonviolent Parenting Educator Training (NPET). It involves an intensive course of study, reviewing the research, principles, and practices of Nonviolent Parenting. In an alive, creative, and dynamic learning environment participants will be immersed in the philosophical underpinnings and pedagogical framework for teaching in multiple settings. In addition to experiential learning opportunities, there will be required reading, class assignments, and frequent opportunities to practice presenting to the group and to receive feedback.

Part Two is the Parenting Educator Certification Program (PECP), a six month practicum for students who have completed the NPET. Students who wish to receive CNVEP certification will be asked to join the practicum. Activities will include:

- * Observation of certified teachers.
- * Additional trainings and participant support group meetings.
- * Opportunities to practice teaching with supervision from a CNVEP teacher who will provide feedback and support to facilitate development of skills.

Upon successful completion of the practicum, participants will receive certification as a CNVEP certified parent educator.

Who may apply:

The Parent Educator Training Program is designed for individuals who have completed a series of classes in Nonviolent Parenting at CNVEP. If you have not completed a series, please call CNVEP and speak with Brian or Ruth to discuss your participation in the training.
